

CHEF MISTAKES: CHANTEL DARTNALL

BY FDL ON DECEMBER 11, 2016

A cut, a burn, a broken plate - what's the worst mistake you've ever made in the kitchen? A dropped pancake? Burned chicken? How about cooking a dish and forgetting to remove the cellophane wrap? Over the past few years we've been asking some of the world's best chefs to share with us a story about a time they really messed up in the kitchen, a mistake they made that will live with them forever.

It's easy for us to forget that chefs, the ones who execute work every day that pursues perfection, make mistakes, but they do. In fact, speak with any of the world's great chefs and they'll tell you that the mistakes are more important than the successes.

The next chef to reveal their Chef Mistake is Chantel Dartnall (<https://www.finedininglovers.com/search-box/?Chantel%20Dartnall>) from Restaurant Mosaic in South Africa.

Dartnall takes us back on a tale to when she was a young chef working in London, a young chef tasked with cooking for a very scary chef.